Foreword

Our class of 1976 "has run its course, and for us there is no tomorrow here — only the lingering memories of a happy yesterday."¹ In our four years, there have been failures yet triumphs, work yet play, and the memory of these will never be forgotten.

Our class cannot forget that its country will celebrate its two-hundredth anniversary this year. Plainfield is one of the many cities in the United States that is exploring its history. This book will attempt to reflect upon the past and present of our community and our school. We, the MILESTONE Staff, hope that we have helped to recall not only the memories of your friends and your high school days, but glimpses of the past of the community that is ours.

. . . a look at the present

Plainfield High School has changed over the years. The original high school was built in 1867, only twenty years after the founding of the Public School System. It was the second high school to be formed in the state of New Jersey. It was located on Fifth Street and Arlington Avenue and was known as Stillman School. The building had eight rooms, four of which were used for the secondary school. The first graduating class boasted eight students.

As the result of a growing population, the old Seventh Day Baptist Church accommodated Plainfield's students in 1897. In 1904, after more overcrowding, the cornerstone of the Plainfield High School building was laid in the Baptist Burial ground. In 1929 and in 1937, additions to this building were added. In 1959, Plainfield High School was established as a three year high school. In 1966, plans for a new high school were approved. In September, 1970, the new building located at 950 Park Avenue was opened. In 1972, Plainfield High School added a ninth grade class in order to establish a full four year program. Today, the Plainfield High School Complex includes two buildings, housing over 2,600 students.

MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL

Muhlenberg Hospital is located on the corner of Randolph Road and Park Avenue and was founded in 1877. Besides the 510 available beds, Muhlenberg is known as a voluntary, community teaching center, serving about 60,000 persons annually. There are five nationally accredited educational programs conducted at the hospital in addition to a specialized medical education program. Muhlenberg is also affiliated with Union College and Rutgers Medical School.

Plainfield is fortunate to have industrial development, a large downtown shopping area, a hospital, a good public school system, a public library, and even two large parks, along with several smaller parks comprising a well-rounded city.

The two major parks in Plainfield are Greenbrook Park and Cedarbrook Park. They are located at opposite ends of town. Pictured here is Cedarbrook Park, which is located off Park Avenue and bordering South Plainfield. Cedarbrook and Greenbrook Parks each have a pond for fishing in spring and summer and ice skating in winter. They also have several baseball diamonds, tennis courts, and playground equipment for children. Cedarbrook Park boasts a brook, and picnic areas, and is well known for its Shakespeare and Iris gardens.

Today Plainfield has a population exceeding 45,330. Although the city is primarily residential in character, it possesses a number of major industries that make it the business center of central New Jersey. Its chief manufacturers include: automotive equipment, painting, aircraft parts, storage tanks, machinery, chemicals, garments, appliances, printing presses, metal products, trophies, electric components, along with several others.

Plainfield also has over 50 historical sites. Besides these historical spots there are also many modern sites such as the Public Library and the new building of PHS itself.

. . . a look into the past

The Babcock Building

BABCOCK BUILDING

George H. Babcock, supposedly one of Plainfield's first millionaires, was a great inventor. He built one city block, thought to be one of the finest architecturally between New York and Philadelphia. One building, built in 1893, located on West Front Street and Madison Avenue, was known as the Babcock Building. This building was five stories high and had many offices, such as a post office and department store. On March 6, 1902, the building was destroyed by one of the largest fires in Plainfield's history.

The Plainfield Public Library

The Quaker Meeting House

QUAKER MEETING HOUSE

The Quaker Meeting House, located on Watchung Avenue, was built on the property of William Webster. This meeting house, still serving Plainfield's Society of Friends, lent its name to the community, which officially became "Plainfield", when the post office was established in 1800. This is Plainfield's only surviving 18th century building in the center of town — the Quaker Meeting House.

DRAKE HOUSE

The Drake House, located at 602 West Front Street, is said to have been Washington's Headquarters in Plainfield during the Battle of Short Hills in the American Revolution on June 26, 1777. This house was built by Issac Drake in 1745 and was passed on from generation to generation within his family. In 1864, it was purchased by John Harburger, who added several rooms to the house. In 1920, the West End Civic Association bought the house in order to preserve it. The deed was later transferred to the Historical Society of Plainfield and North Plainfield. It is maintained today as a public museum by the Historical Society and the City of Plainfield.

The Drake House

Old Man Hatchet's House

CITY HALL

Until 1918, Plainfield had no City Hall. The Cutter Building which later became Kreison's Billiard Hall was the earliest known place where the city council met. Later, the Stillman Music Hall on West Front Street was used. From 1891 until 1902, council meetings were held in the Coward Building on Park Avenue. The old Smalley building on North Avenue was used from 1902 till City Hall was occupied. The property at Watchung Avenue and East Sixth Street was purchased for $31,000 from Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks for construction of a $200,000 City Hall. The cornerstone was laid February 17, 1917. The only major change made in the building since it was built has been the addition of an elevator, completed in 1958.

The Municipal Building

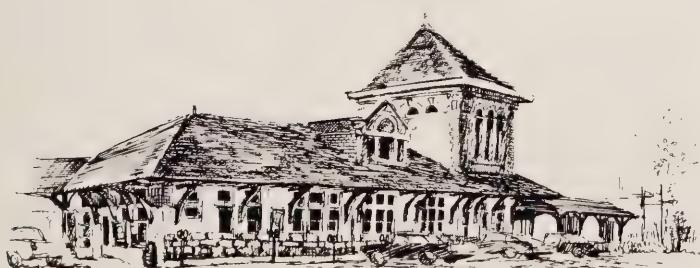

MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB

The Monday Afternoon Club was founded by Miss G.G. Kenyon, principal of now defunct Plainfield Seminary, in 1887. The main purpose of the club was to have a mother's organization in which problems concerning the schools could be worked out through meetings with the faculty.

It was during these meetings, that the idea of forming a club devoted to literature, art, science, and other related fields surfaced. In 1888, a constitution was adopted, and the club was christened, "Monday Afternoon Club". It was named this because the meetings were held on the afternoons of the first and third Mondays of each month.

TIME

The vague sea mud, lit by the marble cliff
And from their fragments are long grinds
Pebbles like flowers.

Or the vague weather wanders in the fields,
When up spring flowers with coloured buds
Like marble pebbles.

The beauty of the flowers - Time, death-grieved:
The pebbles' beauty too - Time,
Life-vainly.

It is all too easy to admire a flower
Or a smooth pebble flower-like freaked
By Time and vagueness.

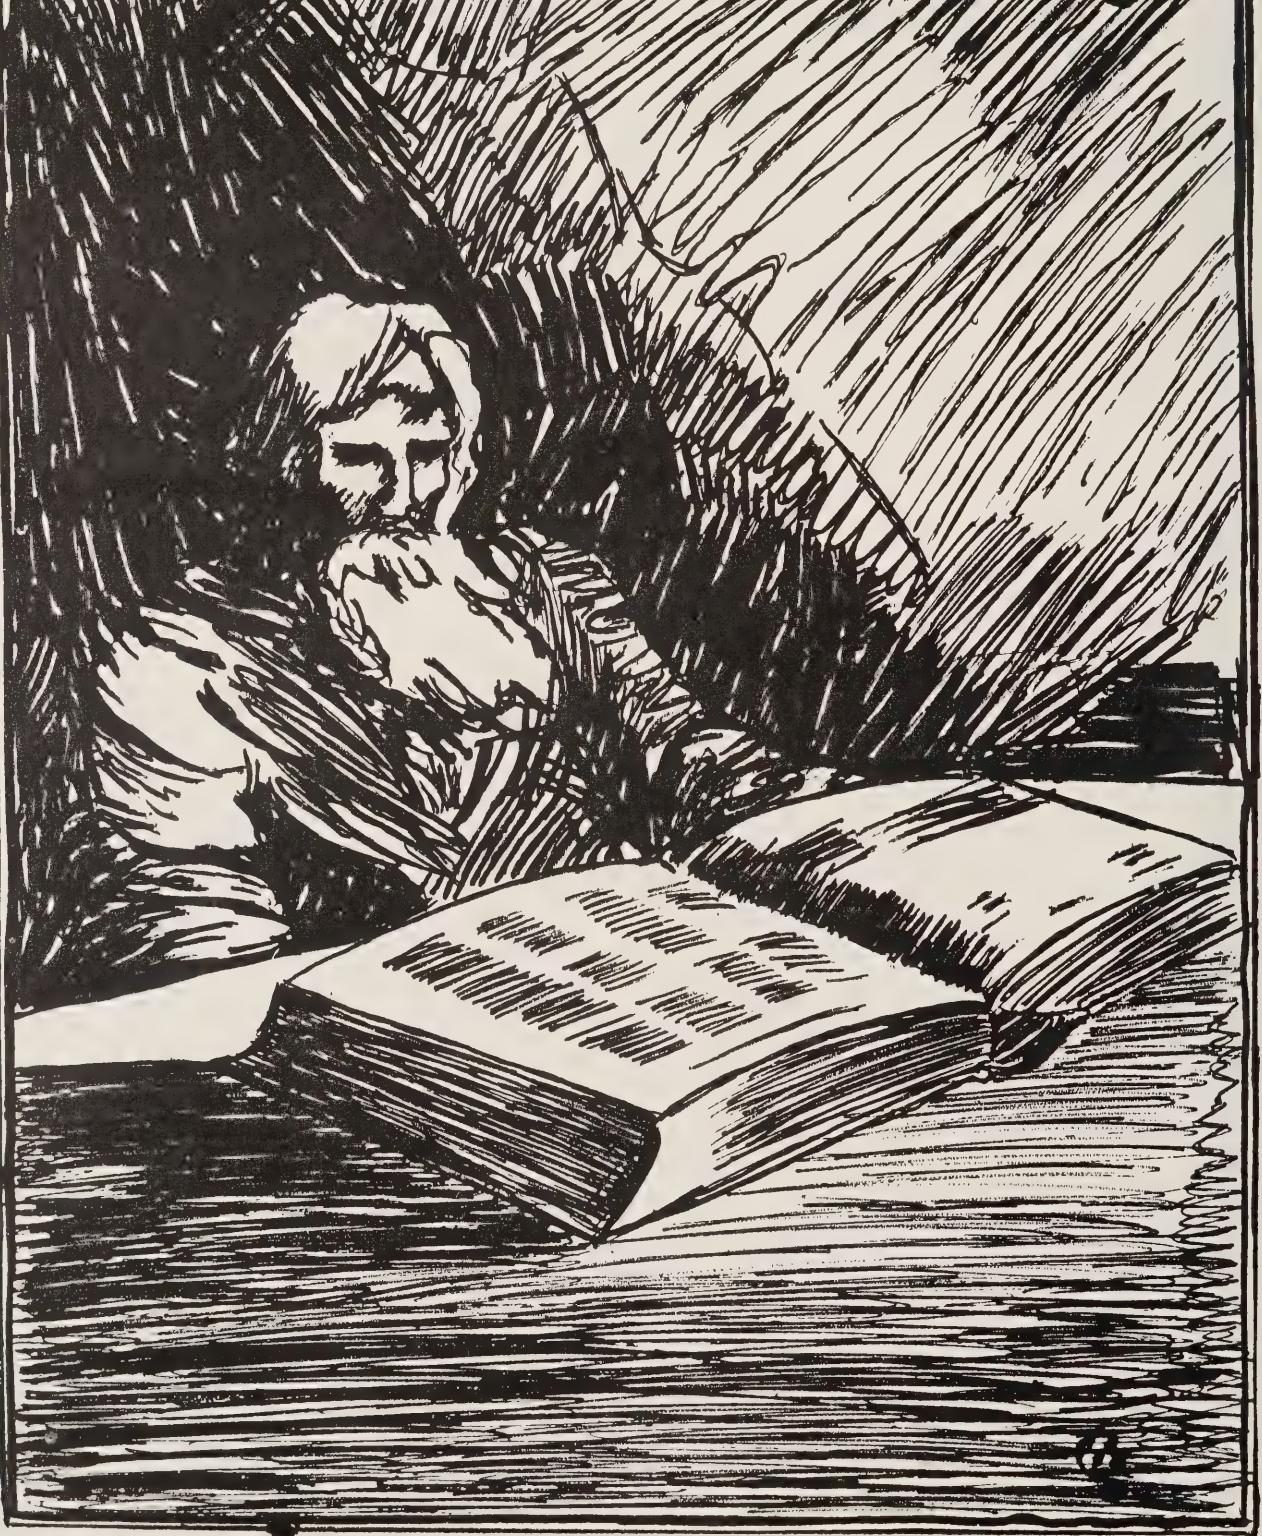

Time - Time's ease and the sweet ill that coaxes
All obstinate locks and rusty hinges
To loving-kindness.

What monster's power against that lovesome pair,
Old age and childhood, seals of Time,
His sorrowful vagueness.

Or will not render him the accustomed thanks
Humouring age with filial flowers,
Childhood with pebbles?

Class History

Taken from 1926 Milestone.

Our Past

From the very beginning, in September, 1972, there was a difference. There was something special about this particular class, this class of 1976. They were the first students to attend Plainfield High School as freshmen in recent history. They were there to see the P.H.S. athletic teams — nearly all of them — return to past glory after years of domination. They were destined to graduate in the year of the nation's bicentennial. But, most of all, they had style, a certain flair. They were different.

They came out of Junior High School not knowing what to expect, but determined to try their best. They were going to make it work. They were homeroomed and fed in the old building, but, they did not complain. Nor did they complain when the rules were changed, putting some of them, as seniors, back in old building homerooms. No, they endured it silently. This was a sign of their style, their merit, their class. Yes, they were special.

They saw a lot of things in their four years at P.H.S., this class of 1976. They saw a basketball team in 1975 go 25-1 only to be beaten in a controversial game in the state tournament; They saw a track team become champions of the entire state. They saw a very cold day in December, 1974, on which a record eight false fire alarms were committed. They were disappointed at an almost football victory on a very wet Thanksgiving day in Westfield in their senior year. They laughed together, cried together, danced together and worked together and stuck together. It's almost over now. They've just about made it. It took "guts", determination, poise, love and, above all, pride.

In June, 1976, they will be gone; to college, to work, to life, and when they are gone the people will remember. They will remember next year as the class of 1977 tries to replace this class. They will remember in the years to come as the 1976 graduates return as successes in business, athletics, leadership and just about every other conceivable lifestyle and profession, because this was also the class of 1976. But, mostly, the people will remember the style. Yes, from the very beginning, they were something special, this class of 1976. Something very special.

SELF EXPRESSION

If I want to I will
And you can't change me
I will be who I want to be
I will not be a name on the door
And you will not break me
I will stand and fight
For I am going to be no computer
I will be no machine
I will . . . though, be me

FOOTBALL

The P.H.S. Football Team put together another winning season under the direction of Head Coach Milt Theodosatos. The final record this year was 4-3-2. The Big Red started off the season with a pair of losses and ties, but the Cardinals suddenly began to fly high by winning four consecutive games including three shutouts before closing the season with a loss in the traditional Thanksgiving Day game.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

The high flying Cardinal Basketball squad, guided by Coach Rico Parenti, commenced the 1975-76 season in high fashion with ten consecutive victories including the Plainfield Christmas Tournament. In mid-season, the Cardinals tasted bitter defeat after stretching their 1974-76 winning streak to 35 in a row. As the season progressed, the Cards continued to sport their competitive spirit. They successfully completed their season, upholding the new winning tradition of basketball — Cardinal style.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The Plainfield Girls' Basketball Team fielded only a squad of nine, coached by Mrs. Nancy Rasmussen. The Cardinals substituted their lack of members with good team discipline and desire by successfully representing PHS on the basketball court.

INDOOR TRACK

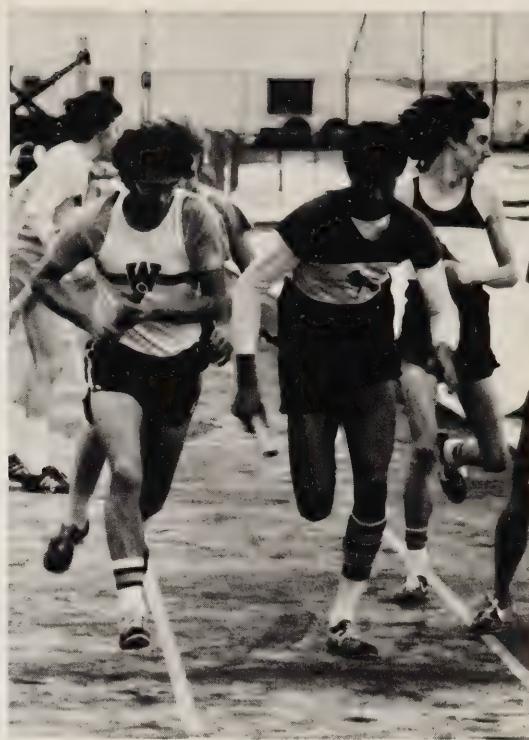

Led by a talented senior lineup, Coach Ron Upperman's Indoor Track Team stepped into the starting blocks and catapulted to instant success as it captured its first major victory — the Westfield Winter Relays.

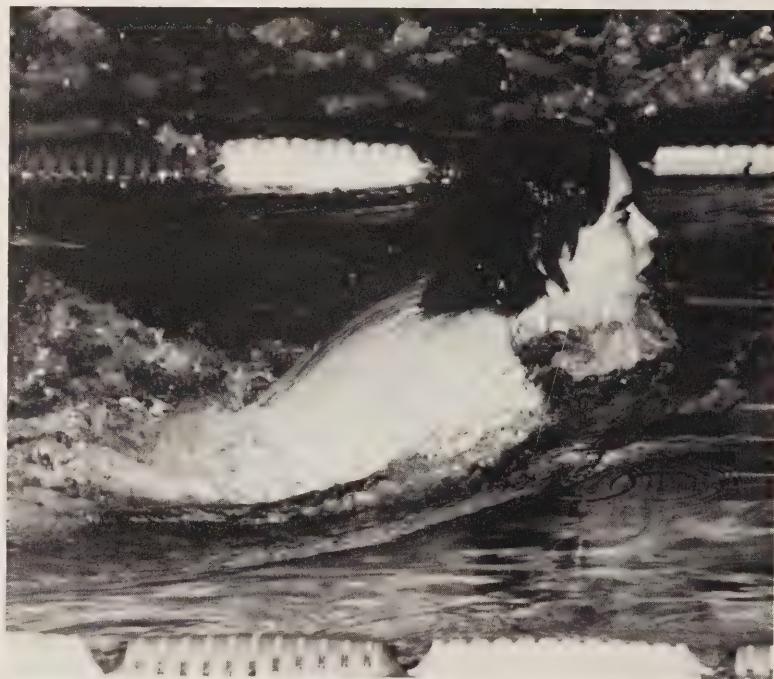

Sparkling performances by the mile, 2-mile, and hurdle relays; school records in the mile and 880 yard runs; and the great leaping ability of the high jumpers, carried the Cardinal runners through another successful indoor track campaign.

"What is the MILESTONE? MILESTONE is the annual report of activities and personalities of Plainfield High School explained in words and pictures. MILESTONE is also repository of memories contained between the covers of a book. MILESTONE portrays the joy of companionship, the excitement of athletic competitions, the orderly confusion of changing classes, the frustration of examinations, and finally, the goal — graduation.

In Plainfield High School all of these things are symbolized by the cardinal, a bird. The very word cardinal embraces almost all of the aspects of the high school. It begins with the cardinal numbers one, two, three and four, for the years we have spent here; it includes the cardinal virtues of justice, prudence, temperance, and fortitude; it glows with cardinal red for brightness of high school life; its rays extend to the cardinal points of the compass: North, East, South, and West; and it is the keynote of the years we have spent at Plainfield High School."¹

“You may aid the man, you may guide him, and above all,
you may inspire him; but the only thing that is worth having is what he gets by his own exertions, and what he gets is proportionate to the effort
he puts into it.”

— A. Lawrence Lowell

We were black, and white, and brown, and yellow
We were men, and women, the aged, the young
We played and sang
And danced and danced
And loved . . .
And searched.
Looking for the right one, the right place
The hidden treasure.
Children dreaming of the future
And we aged when we cried
For the last loves — (They're not really gone)
And maybe the memories are only faded
Pieces of the past
But they can take us to places
Long destroyed by time
And they can play back
In our minds
Of all there ever was.
